CHINATOWN TO HELP THE JAPS

A BIG RED CROSS BENEFIT IS ARRANGED FOR TO-MORROW.

Japanese Editor of Chinese Newspaper Planned It, and Streets Near Chinatown Will Pack Their Theatre at Two Performances.

Chinatown is placarded from end to end with mammoth posters announcing the Japanese Red Cross benefit to be given at the Chinese Opera House at 1:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. So quietly and rapidly have the preparations for this been carried on that few outside of those chiefly interested are aware of the movement.

Kengo Moriya, a Japanese who for several years has been publisher of the Chinese Weekly Herald, conceived the idea of giving his brothers in exile a chance to show whatever sympathy they felt for his country's cause.

"I wanted to see how Chinese feeling stood here," he said last night, "and how such sentiment would be likely to materialize in dollars and cents. The result has been far beyond my expectations. The buyers of tickets that have already been sold will more than fill the theatre for the performance on the 11th; but, as you see, the cards are dated so as to use either then or on the 12th."

"The Chinese Reform Club told me when I broached the subject of this benefit to their officials a week ago, that they had been discussing a similar enterprise among themselves. They met me half way in everything I proposed. Donations have also been given by a number of well-to-do Chinese in the city, and though the benefit tickets are all sold for 25 cents each—there being no reserved seats and the capacity of the little theatre less than being limited to about 1,000—the sum that will eventually be forwarded to the Mikado's Red Cross association bids fair to be a goodly one."

"The theatre officials have given the building free for the two afternoons, and performers have volunteered their services. The program of the first entertainment will consist of addresses by Joseph Singleton and other prominent Chinese, performances by a group of Japanese acrobats, the Ken Jiu (fencing match), moving pictures which are the especial admiration of all Chinatown, and phonographic interludes.

"The red, yellow, blue and green posters that now cover every available surface in Doyers, Mott and Pell streets, and before which little groups of excitedly chattering Chinese are gathered from morning till night, refer to the outbreak of the Russian occupation of our soil in Manchuria. These, of course, are printed in Chinese characters exclusively. They appeal to every loyal Chinaman, and they tell of the soldiers who are fighting our battle no less than Japan's, as every loss or gain of the army vitally concerns the great Chinese Empire. They are signed by prominent Chinese residents, among whom are Joseph Singleton, Guy Maine, Joe Chue, Lee Yick Yoo, John Chan, Lee Bow Wong, Hong Ming San, Tom Lee, Dr. J. C. Thome and Wong Get. All Chinatown is wrought up to a great pitch of excitement over the enterprise."

"How I feel about it?" repeated Joe Chue, one of Pell street's wealthiest lawyers, "why, if I were a Jap, I'd go home and fight; that's how I feel. Maybe we Chinese will have a chance yet, though, and I'd like nothing better than to get a lick at those Russian cowards."

MINERS DEPORTED AGAIN.

Men Sent Away From Oursay, Col., by Soldiers—Tunnel Used as a Prison.

DENVER, Col., April 9.—Seventy strike agitators recently deported from Telluride by the Citizens' Alliance were supplied with tickets by the Western Federation of Miners yesterday and sent from Oursay to Telluride. Adjutant Bell had his militia surround the train when it reached Telluride. Five of the worst agitators were put in prison and the remaining sixty-five were fed and placed aboard a special train. They were then sent back to Oursay without offering any resistance.

Advices received by the headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners from the re-deported men are to the effect that the military authorities have taken President Moyer of the Federation with a half dozen other leaders of the strikers and imprisoned them in a mile-long tunnel which connects the lower workings of the Montezuma and Cimarron mines in the San Miguel county side of the range with the Virginia Avenue tunnel on the Oursay side. Absolutely no information concerning Moyer can be obtained, and the censors on the telephone and telegraph lines positively refuse to allow his name to be mentioned.

Lawyer Dillon's Auto Driver Fined.
George Pillsbury, automobile driver for John Dillon, counsel for the Western Union Telegraph Company, was fined $10 in the West Side court yesterday for speeding Mr. Dillon's machine on Cathedral Heights. Mr. Dillon was not in the automobile when Pillsbury was arrested, but he appeared in the court in behalf of the prisoner.

LOVE MAKING IN JAIL.

Elmer Castle Continued It Through the Window Bars After His Release.

UTICA, April 9.—Elmer Castle of Norwich was recently released from the Chenango county jail. Nevertheless after he had served a six months sentence for disorderly conduct. While a prisoner he had been employed in painting the interior of the jail, and while so engaged he became acquainted with Mrs. Hattie H. Barrows, who is awaiting trial on the charge of aiding and abetting the killing of her husband, who met death at the hands of Mrs. Barrows's lover, Frank Gale.

The friendship between Castle and the sickle Mrs. Barrows quickly ripened into love, and the widow, forgetting her affection for Gale, promised to elope with Castle when she was free. Castle was released from jail the other day and the same evening he was discovered scaling the walls of the jail yard and perching himself on the ledge of Mrs. Barrows's cell window on the second floor. They conversed for half an hour and then Castle, kissing her through the window bars, returned home.

He repeated his visit on the two succeeding nights, but on his fourth trip a plot was laid for him. When the alarm was sounded Castle was seated on the window ledge talking with his lover. He jumped from his high perch, scaled the wall and was at home in bed before the Sheriff came up with him. Castle is now on the inside of the jail and will probably remain there for several months.

ABLE TO WORK AND MUST WORK.

A Stir Created in a Poorhouse—Outbreak of Maladies.

Overseer of the Poor John B. Casey of Irvington, N. J., is trying to get some work out of the paupers in the poorhouse. He thinks that a number of them are afflicted with the hook worm, but are physically capable of doing work for which the town has been paying laborers, chiefly the cleaning of the crosswalks twice a week. Mr. Casey knows that he has a number of men in the almshouse who are afflicted with nothing worse than a tired feeling, loss of appetite, and a willingness to rest and revulsion against manual labor. Their appetites are good and they can pitch quoits or play leapfrog. Then there are others who live in the town who are regular applicants for aid, but never do any harder work than moving from shade to sunshine and taking regular walks to his office for town help.

DOCTOR CUT AND RAN.

Mrs. Mangold Thinks She Has Found Reasons for Suing for a Divorce.

Mrs. Matilda Mangold of Dolgeville, Herkimer county, has begun action in the Supreme Court for divorce from Dr. William G. Mangold, who disappeared from his home on Dec. 27 last.

Mangold had a large practice in Dolgeville. Last December he and his wife came to New York for the holidays. Dr. Mangold returned to Dolgeville, leaving her here, and on Dec. 27 he left his home. He left several letters behind him and hoped that she would get along better without him. She immediately set detectives at work to find him, and on the reports they submitted to her she learned that Dr. Mangold sailed from New York for Panama and then took ship for San Francisco, where he arrived on Jan. 28. Mrs. Mangold says that she believes he was accompanied by a woman whom she names as correspondent.

Neumann Says Herzog Punched Him. Sues.

A quarrel at the Riverside Casino on Nov. 26 between Ely Neumann and Milton Scott has resulted in a suit by Neumann against the Supreme Court against his opponent for $2,000 for assault. Neumann says that the attack on him was unprovoked and that he was severely beaten and injured. He wore eyeglasses and they were broken in the mix-up. His counsel is Charles Stein.

Harris, who is 14 years old, is said to have confessed that he accidentally shot his brother while playing with a revolver. He was taken to the Dedham jail.

WILL OF OLIVER HARRIMAN.

BETWEEN $18,000,000 AND $20,000,000 TO EIGHT CHILDREN.

No Outside Bequest Except One of $30,000 to His Sister, Mrs. Rosemond H. Owen.

The Share of James Low Harriman of Paris Is Left to Trust for Him.

WHITE PLAINS, April 9.—Surrogate Silkman admitted to probate to-day the will of Oliver Harriman, Sr., who died at Mount Kisco, and who left an estate estimated at between $18,000,000 and $20,000,000, and issued letters testamentary to the executors and trustees, comprising Oliver Harriman, Jr., of White Plains, J. Borden Harriman of Mount Kisco, and the United States Trust Company of New York. All the heirs waived the service of citations. The will was attested on Dec. 18, 1876, and by its provisions then $1,000,000 was disposed of outright and the residuary estate divided into shares. This action was greatly changed by five codicils attached to the will, revoking various sections and previous codicils.

All through the will and codicils Mr. Harriman's wife, who died about three years ago, is mentioned. To her was bequeathed $300,000 and the town house and stables in Manhattan, which are now inherited on account of her decease by the eight children, who will share alike. Mr. Harriman makes no outside bequest, except $30,000 which he gives to his sister, Mrs. Rosemond H. Owen. The great estate is equally divided, one share going to each of his children, James Low Harriman of Paris; Mrs. Emilie H. Olin of 107 East Thirty-fourth street, Manhattan; Mrs. Anna Vanderbilt, 660 Fifth avenue, Manhattan; Oliver Harriman, Jr., of White Plains; Jefferson Borden Harriman, of Mount Kisco; Joseph Harriman, of Newport; Mrs. Lillie Traverser, of 30 West Thirty-fifth street, Manhattan; and Herbert M. Harriman, of Westbury, N. Y.

Mr. Harriman, according to a schedule of securities filed about four years ago, owned more than $4,000,000 in gold, real estate and bonds, in addition to a great amount of real estate. The only heir of his eighth share is left in trust to his son, James Low Harriman, Jr. In this bequest a codicil dated Dec. 10, 1892, says: "I hereby give, devise and bequeath the whole share of my residuary estate intended for the benefit of my son James Low Harriman, and the share of the proceeds of the sale of my stable and house, to my trustees in trust, and to collect and receive the income thereof and apply the income to the use of my son James Low Harriman during the term of his life. Upon his death the share descends to his children, and if he leaves no children, then he may devise by will one-half of the share to any person he chooses, the remainder to revert to the estate. It is provided in his will and codicils that upon the death of his son, his grandchildren shall have a remainder interest, and among those who some day will fall heir to a fortune are William Earl Dodge, Anna C. Dodge, Samuel S. Sands, Winthrop Sands, Margaret S. Rutherford, Barbara C. Rutherford, Oliver Harriman, the second, of Paris; Mary S. Harriman, of Paris; Oliver Harriman, Ethel Harriman and Joseph Harriman, Jr. The will and codicils contain twenty closely written pages. The witnesses to the will, which was signed twenty-five years ago, are J. Smith, William D. Page and H. A. Martin of 50 Wall street.

Drank Cow Medicine in Mistake for Whiskey and Died.

UTICA, April 9.—Daniel Connors, a hostler, 55 years of age, living near Norwich, drank some medicine which he had purchased for a cow in mistake for whiskey yesterday and died shortly afterward. He had a mixture of aconite, nuxvomica and sugar of lead in a bottle in one of his pockets and in another pocket he had a bottle of whiskey. He became dry as he walked along the roadway toward home and getting the bottles mixed took a drink of the cow medicine. When he reached his home he lapsed into unconsciousness and did not revive.

He made no resistance when arrested.

Four Children Burned to Death.
